PROTECTION OF PERSONS SUBJECT TO SUBPOENAS

A party or an attorney responsible for the issuance and service of a subpoena shall take reasonable steps to avoid imposing undue burden or expense on a person subject to that subpoena. The court on behalf of which the subpoena was issued shall enforce this duty and impose upon the party or attorney in breach of this duty an appropriate sanction, which may include, but is not limited to, lost earnings and a reasonable attorney's fee.

8. Pursuant to Section 35-12-16 NMSA 1978, the judgment creditor:

OR

(b) an amount each week equal to forty (40) times the federal minimum hourly wage rate;

next, until all prior writs have been fully satisfied, the remainder of the balance of fifty percent (50%) of the judgment debtor's disposable earnings shall be paid to this judgment creditor to satisfy the child or spousal support order. Upon satisfaction of all prior writs of garnishment, the entire balance of the judgment debtor's disposable earnings shall be applied to satisfy this child or spousal support order judgment. If the wages of the judgment debtor are not subject to garnishment because of the application of the formula set forth above, this order shall continue and shall automatically take effect when the wages of the judgment debtor shall increase to an amount that creates disposable earnings based upon the formula set forth above.

[] Prior child or spousal support writ. Upon motion of the judgment debtor, this court orders the distribution of the judgment debtor's child or spousal support obligations as follows:

If the money being withheld pursuant to a notice to withhold income under the Support Enforcement Act exceeds the otherwise garnishable amounts, this garnishment shall continue in effect until the notice to withhold income has been voided, modified, suspended or terminated, at which time the full amount allowed for garnishment shall be paid to the judgment creditor.

The 1996 amendment, effective January 1, 1996, in the findings, substituted "a claim of exemption" for "three copies of the claim of exemption" in Paragraph 4, and added the second alternative in Paragraph 5 and inserted "which has been disputed" in the third alternative in Paragraph 5; and in the order, rewrote former Paragraphs 4 through 11 as Paragraphs 4 through 6.

The 1999 amendment, effective October 15, 1999, deleted "[15%]" following "plus" in Paragraph I of the court orders.

available to respondent. The form provides an alternative means by which respondent can serve pleadings and other papers on petitioner.

USE NOTE

This Response to Petition gives respondent an opportunity to state defenses against the charges in the petition. This Response to Petition does not contain a counter petition charging the petitioner with an act of domestic abuse. If the respondent only wants to defend against the petitioner's charge of abuse, this form should be used as drafted. If the respondent wants both to defend against the petitioner's charge of domestic abuse and also to charge the petitioner with domestic abuse, the respondent should fill out this form and also fill out Form 4-962A NMRA. Respondent then should attach Form 4-962 and Form 4-962A.

USE NOTES

1. These use notes shall not be included in any Order of Protection issued by the court.
2. Mutual orders of protection are binding on the petitioner as well as the respondent and are entitled to full faith and credit when certain procedural requirements are met. Because the mutual order of protection will only issue when a petition and counter-petition (or reversed-caption petition) are filed and the court finds that both petitioner and respondent committed acts of abuse, a mutual order will be entitled to full faith and credit pursuant to 18 U.S.C. Section 2265(c) and Section 40-13-6D NMSA 1978.
3. A mutual order may be entered only after a counter-petition has been filed and a hearing conducted of which petitioner received actual notice and at which petitioner had an opportunity to participate if 18 U.S.C. Section 922 is to apply to this order.

4. This order may be entered only after a hearing at which respondent received actual notice and at which respondent had an opportunity to participate if 18 U.S.C. Section 922 is to apply to this order.
5. See Form 4-967 for the Custody, Support and Division of Property Order attachment.
6. A violation of this provision may result in a finding of contempt of court, punishable by fine, imprisonment or both.
7. If appropriate, an order providing for restitution may be included in this paragraph.
8. Respondent or petitioner should be served at the time this order is issued, before leaving the courthouse. If a default order is issued, service upon the non-attending party shall be made by mail or by personal service. See Section 40-13-6(A) NMSA 1978.

[Approved, effective November 1, 1999 until July 1, 2001; approved, as amended, effective May 1, 2001.]

Committee commentary. — The Family Violence Protection Act provides that "a peace officer shall arrest without a warrant and take into custody a person whom the peace officer has probable cause to believe has violated an order" of protection entered pursuant to the Act. Section 40-13-6(C) NMSA 1978.

This statute would allow a warrantless misdemeanor arrest for conduct occurring outside the presence of the officer and would not require exigent circumstances in addition to probable cause. That a misdemeanor must occur in the presence of the arresting officer is a long standing common law requirement for a warrantless misdemeanor arrest. Eg. State v. Luna, 93 N.M. 773, 777, 606 P.2d 183, 187 (1980). The "exigent circumstances" requirement is mandated by the New Mexico Constitution. Campos v. State, 117 N.M. 155, 159, 870 P.2d 117, 121 (1994) ("[F]or a warrantless arrest to be reasonable it must be based upon both probable cause and sufficient exigent circumstances."). Absent the exigent circumstance that the misdemeanor is committed in the presence of the officer, Id., ("If an officer observes the person arrested committing a felony, exigency will be presumed."), the New Mexico Constitution appears to bar blanket authority to make warrantless arrests for misdemeanors committed outside the presence of the officer.

The legislature, of course, lacks power to provide by statute for an arrest procedure that violates the New Mexico Constitution. Campos v. State, 117 N.M. 155, 158, 870 P.2d 117, 120 (1994). To avoid having the Supreme Court give approval to a form containing language of questionable constitutional validity, the committee did not use the statutory language in the portion of the Final Order describing the power of a law enforcement officer to make a warrantless arrest for the misdemeanor crime (Section 40-13-6(D))

NMSA 1978), of violating the Final Order of Protection. The committee substituted more general language, which does not prejudge the constitutional issue.

The general provisions of the order of protection, including injunctive orders, "shall continue until modified or rescinded . . . or until the court approves a subsequent consent agreement. . . ." Section 40-13-6(B) NMSA 1978. In contrast, "[a]n order of protection . . . involving custody or support shall be effective for a fixed period of time not to exceed six months". Id. The custody or support "order may be extended for good cause upon motion . . . for an additional period of time not to exceed six months", Id., unless "the order supersedes or alters prior orders of the court" pertaining to child custody or child support. See Section 40-13-5(C) NMSA 1978. In the latter situation, "the court may enter an initial order of protection, but the portion of the order dealing with child custody or child support will then be transferred to the court that has or continues to have jurisdiction over the pending or prior custody or support action". Id.

ANNOTATIONS

The 2001 amendment, effective May 1, 2001, substituted "Mutual/Non Mutual" for "Against Respondent" in the title of the order and rewrote the order to reflect the fact that the order addresses the actions of both parties in the protection order.

6. Respondent may be served at the time this order is issued. If respondent is not present at the time this order is issued, service upon respondent shall be made by delivering a copy to the party. See Section 40-13-6A NMSA 1978.

[Approved, effective November 1, 1999 until July 1, 2001; approved, as amended, effective May 1, 2001; April 9, 2002.]

Committee commentary.— This Stipulated Order of Protection against Respondent is not the same as an Order of Protection entered pursuant to Form 4-965 NMRA. This order provides fewer protections to the parties than does the Form 4-965 Order of Protection. The decreased protection is the result of the fact that the order is not based upon findings of abuse, but is entered without reference to whether abuse has occurred. Nonetheless, there may be occasions when the parties and the court are satisfied that this Stipulated Order of Protection provides adequate relief to the parties.

The general provisions of the order of protection, including injunctive orders, shall "continue until modified or rescinded ... or until the court approves a subsequent consent agreement...." Section 40-13-6B NMSA 1978. In contrast, "[a]n order of protection ... involving custody or support shall be effective for a fixed period of time not to exceed six months". Id. The custody or support "order may be extended for good cause upon motion ... for an additional period of time not to exceed six months", id., unless "the order supersedes or alters prior orders of the court" pertaining to child custody or child support. See Section 40-13-5C NMSA 1978. In the latter situation, "the court may enter an initial order of protection, but the portion of the order dealing with child custody or child support will then be transferred to the court that has or continues to have jurisdiction over the pending or prior custody or support action". Id.

Factual Distinction Between Mutual Order of Protection and Stipulated Order of Protection

The core factual difference between the Form 4-965 Order of Protection and this Stipulated Order of Protection is that Form 4-965 requires the court to make findings that each party has committed an act of domestic abuse. In contrast, this order is entered by the court with no finding of domestic abuse by respondent, but rather, is based solely on the stipulation of the parties that, without admitting to acts of abuse, each party is willing to have the restraining order issued against respondent.

Stipulated Order of Protection Not Placed in any Federal, State or Tribal Registry

New Mexico has a computerized registry of orders of protection available to law enforcement officials. The federal government also has a registry for orders of protection. Orders entered in the state registry are often forwarded to the federal registry. No statute mandates that all such orders be registered in the state registry or the federal registry. Placement of orders in the state or federal registry can have serious negative consequences for parties. The committee is of the view that respondents (most often acting pro se) who stipulate to entry of an order of protection without admitting abuse should not be subject to such consequences. For this reason, this form Stipulated Order of Protection directs that the order not be entered in any national, state or tribal registry.

Brady Bill Firearm Ban Does Not Apply if There is no Hearing

The so-called "Brady Bill", 18 U.S.C. Section 922, prohibits a person who is the subject of a court order prohibiting abuse from possessing a firearm or ammunition if the order meets the requirements set forth in the act. The applicable provision does not require a finding of abuse, but merely an order that "explicitly prohibits the use of physical force against [an] intimate partner." 18 U.S.C. Section 922(g)(8)(c)(ii).

This Stipulated Order of Protection could qualify as a trigger for the federal firearm ban only if a hearing had been held prior to its entry. In addition, the act has a separate specific requirement that also must be met before the Brady Bill ban is effective: Only an Order that "was issued after a hearing of which such person received actual notice and at which such person had an opportunity to participate" will trigger the federal firearm ban. 18 U.S.C. Section 922(g)(8)(A).

ANNOTATIONS

The 2001 amendment, effective May 1, 2001, added the option of nonmutuality to the stipulated order and deleted provisions relating to child custody, support, and property, debts, and payments of money, referring instead to the "Custody, Support and Division of Property Attachment of this Order of Protection".

The 2002 amendment, effective April 9, 2002, specifically made this form a stipulated order of protection against respondent to compliment the new Form 4-971 which is a stipulated order against petitioner.

Compiler's notes.— Pursuant to a court order dated October 27, 1999, this form was provisionally approved for twelve months effective November 1, 1999. Subsequently, by a court order dated October 26, 2000, this form was provisionally approved for eight additional months, effective November 1, 2000. Then, by a court order dated February 27, 2001, this form was approved and adopted in its final form, effective May 1, 2001.
